

scrollathon®

Coral Springs Community Partner Pledge

The Cities of Coral Springs and Parkland, along with the Coral Springs Museum of Art, are bringing Steven and William Ladd's Scrollathon to our community as part of the Cities' Bloomberg Public Art Challenge program "The Power of Art: Inspiring Community Healing after Gun Violence." "The Power of Art" program is a curated series of five large-scale temporary public art installations, designed to be created with community members, with the goal of providing opportunities and outlets for healing and social cohesion. The Scrollathon will engage approximately 1,000 participants from Coral Springs and Parkland to create a collaborative artwork for display.

We are thrilled that your organization has agreed to participate in the Scrollathon and are attaching more information about what you can expect in a Scrollathon session. In order for this program to reach its fullest potential, we ask that your organization commit to the following deliverables:

- Sign this Community Partner Pledge;
- Designate a point person for scheduling;
- Select 25-30 participants for each agreed upon 45-minute session at Coral Springs Museum of Art;
- Distribute, collect and copy media releases one week before scheduled Scrollathon to confirm participants;
- Turn over original media releases at Scrollathon;
- Provide teacher or assistant on-site during Scrollathon;
- Distribute pamphlets to each participant.

Committing to the deliverables ensures a successful and enriching experience for all participants and secures their involvement in the creation of an artwork to be enjoyed by the community. Natasha Ramirez is your point of contact and she can be reached at nramirez@coralsprings.org and 954-340-5000.

Please provide the details of your organization, as you want it to be referenced in any press releases, websites or publications about the project:

Name: _____

Address: _____

Website: _____

Please provide information on your Point Person for the project:

Point Person: _____

Phone/ E-mail: _____

I, _____ pledge on behalf of the above institution to commit to our (print name)
participation in the Scrollathon and to the above deliverables as listed.

Signature & Title

Date